

EVENTS

ARCHAEOLOGY DAYS

The public is invited each year to the Old Stone House where experts and students identify artifacts and answer archaeological questions.

GUEST SPEAKERS

Collaborative events are held throughout the year, such as guest lectures and author meets critics sessions. A recent guest speaker was Massimo Pigliucci, a prominent Stoic philosopher.

NATIONAL ARTS AND HUMANITIES MONTH

Each October, the CPH co-sponsors a variety of on-and-off-campus community events, such as poetry readings at local coffee shops, art exhibits or philosophical discussions.

PANEL DISCUSSIONS

A series of important dialogues about contemporary news and events where participants have the opportunity to ask questions. Topics range from gender issues to human trafficking.

SLIPPERY ROCK UNIVERSITY

WHO WE ARE

The Stone House Center for Public Humanities is a project of Slippery Rock University. The CPH connects the University's humanities faculty and students to the broader community by offering collaborative educational programming, public forums, non-degree courses, workshops and service-learning opportunities. Each component is focused on bringing the insights of the humanities to bear on contemporary public life.

The CPH is supported by SRU, grants and donors.

OUR MISSION

We strive to create a community of learners that are enriched, engaged and enlightened through the humanities.

Our mission is to provide unique opportunities for the western Pennsylvania community to celebrate cultural heritage, foster innovative educational experiences and highlight the humanities' relevance to contemporary life.

ACCESSIBILITY AND COLLABORATION

The CPH focuses on connecting populations that are limited by social or economic barriers to the humanities.

We welcome partnerships with community institutions and value work that transcends both academic disciplines and the boundary between the University and the larger community.

CITIZENSHIP

The humanities provide unique insights into the relationship between individuals and society. This can play an important role in building local communities and enabling individuals to be active and contributing citizens.

HIGH-IMPACT LEARNING

We provide SRU students with opportunities for service-learning, collaborative research and community engagement experiences, which have proven to lead to academic and professional success.

OUR PROGRAMS

BUTLER COUNTY HISTORICAL

The CPH and the Butler County Historical Society, through a digital collaboration, allow for the exploration of the people, places and moments that have shaped the county's history.

HISTORIC FOODWAYS

In addition to food preparation, students learn how western Pennsylvania's food reflects its environment, culture and social customs.

HUMANITIES LADDER

SRU professors and students visit local high school classrooms to offer an engaging, college-level humanities curriculum through weekly team-taught sessions.

HUMANITIES SUMMER CAMP

An experience designed to foster integrated learning and community engagement. This camp provides empowering opportunities for high school students to explore the diversity of the humanities, why they are so important and allow them to "try out" a variety of disciplines in a low-risk setting.

SHOUT OUT FOR THE HUMANITIES

This annual on-campus contest encourages awareness and appreciation for the humanities.
